

ALLIES THREATEN TURKEY IN ASIA

Remarkable advances of Russian and British forces in Asiatic Turkey threaten capture of that country. While the Russians have swept in from the Black sea, Persia and across the Caucasus mountains, two forces of the British have worked up from the south. The map shows how the British are moving up into the Holy Land from the Suex peninsula, and how their advance from the Persian gulf to 35 miles north of Bagdad is threatening the Berlin-Bagdad railway.

TEA

Tea used to be a strong, virulent drink.

But today it is so weak it has to ride to the diningroom on a thirty-dollar wagon.

We owe some department store or other that much besides a debt of gratitude for supporting our share of the now puny and decrepit beverage to the table.

We know a man who frequently drives his wife into a blind rage by saying:

“Agnes, if the tea isn’t able to be up and around today you might wheel us in a cup.”

One of these days she’ll hit him with the wagon.
